COURSE DESCRIPTION:

An unacceptable and tragic reality is that somewhere between 200,000 to 300,000 children sit in American classrooms and will be trafficked for labor or sex every year. Because of mandatory school attendance, educators are in a front-line position to identify and intervene in the lives of youth that are most at risk of being exploited. Participants in this course will learn about the scope and devastating effects of this exploitation, how to identify vulnerable students and intervene effectively.

Importantly, The Heritage Institute has made special arrangements with Friends WPC Nepal, a Seattle non-profit supporting an NGO (Non-Governmental Organization) in Nepal, which saves girls and women from trafficking. Participants can decide to communicate by email and zoom meetings with the Nepal project and their wards, facilitate email communication between their classrooms and youth in the WPC (Women's Protection Center), or they may choose to connect with a local project. All reading is online.

This course is appropriate for teachers from intermediate grades through high school, school administrators, counselors, and psychologists.

LEARNING OUTCOMES: Upon completion of this course, participants will have:

- A greater understanding of the scope and severity of human trafficking in the USA and internationally
- Developed skills and tools to assess students most vulnerable to being exploited
- More awareness of what steps to take as a means of intervening with vulnerable youth
- Learned to give an opportunity to educate youth to the dangers of exploitation in age-appropriate ways

COURSE REQUIREMENTS:

Completion of all specified assignments is required for issuance of hours or credit. The Heritage Institute does not award partial credit.

HOURS EARNED:

Completing the basic assignments (Section A. ASSIGNMENTS REQUIRED FOR HOURS OR UNIVERSITY QUARTER CREDIT

A. INFORMATION ACQUISITION

Assignments done in a course forum will show responses from all educators who have or are taking the course independently. Feel free to read and respond to others' comments.

Group participants can only view and respond to their group members in the Forum.

Assignment #1: COURSE FORUM: Introduce Yourself

View the video Only You can Prevent Human Trafficking.

https://www.youtube.com/embed/4uNirwS_yMo

Use this Flipgrid to record a video of yourself responding to the following:

Identify your current teaching position.

What prior knowledge do you have about human-trafficking of minors?

What do you hope to gain from this course, and why?

Assignment #2: Human Trafficking Background

In the last twenty years, human trafficking of children has risen as a governmental and civil society priority, resulting in the growth of watchdog organizations and resources to prevent trafficking and care for its victims. In this assignment, we will build a background on the trafficking of minors.

- Read pages 47-59 in the document What Educators Need to Know About Human Trafficking
- Watch from slides 1-14 in the National Human Trafficking Resource Center slide presentation (you may need to click on the Objectives slide to start)
- Tabitha's House Statistics on Sex Trafficking
- Stories of Child Sex Trafficking from CNN news
- In a text document of 300-500 words, or a 15+ slide Powerpoint or multi-page google site, document the facts and important points that would want to assemble as possible resources for the curriculum you would develop (or modify) on youth safety.

Assignment #3: Learn the Warning Signs

As many as 300,000 students are sitting in American classrooms who are or will be victims of human trafficking. As such, educators play an extremely important role in early detection and intervention for youth who are at risk.

- Watch the video How to spot human trafficking

<https://www.youtube.com/embed/hrxhptvEOTs>

- Read pages 17-24 and pages 31-39 in What Educators Need to Know About Human Trafficking
- Review resources from Child Welfare Identifying Human Trafficking

Based on the video and your reading, create a simple assessment tool defining characteristics and situations indicative of youth vulnerability that would be useful for your professional situation. In a 2-3 page paper, recall and select one prior student that closely fits your profile, use an alias, describe them, their vulnerabilities, and what, if any, interventions or interactions you had that supported the student's well-being in any way.

Assignment #4: Intervening with vulnerable students

Teacher's skilled and timely intervention with vulnerable students can literally be a life-saver. How you approach a young person who is trapped, feels threatened or worse, has been brain-washed into believing the perpetrator is helping them can be challenging.

- Read pages 25-29 in What Educators Need to Know About Human Trafficking.
- Watch slides 21-24 in Human Trafficking Awareness for Educators ppt.
- In 250+ words describe how you would change your interactions or intervention with the student you described in the prior assignment, or another student.

Assignment #5: Protecting Kids with Social Media Saavy

Cunning predators troll social media spaces disguised as children or friendly adults looking to dupe children into ultimately compromising encounters. Teachers need to be able to advise students and their parents about this growing threat. Paving the Way Foundation has developed a presentation to help parents explore and safeguard their children's social media experience.

Read Dr. Dickenson's article in Edutopia Getting Kids to Take Online Safety Seriously

Read the pamphlet and in 250+ words describe:

- a) What you may already be communicating with students and parents about potential social media threats.
- b) What was new to you in the reading and the article.
- c) what you will do in your work to develop an understanding of potential online threats.

Assignment #6: Join the Front Lines of Help: Friends of WPC Nepal

In this course, we have chosen to spotlight Friends of WPC Nepal, which is a Seattle non-profit in support of a Nepali program protecting women and girls from human trafficking. View several videos about this organization and the young girls they save:

Visit the website read about Us, Our story, Nepal Team, and the Our Programs Tab. We have made arrangements through Sarah Longino in the USA admin@friendsofwpcnepal.org (Communications Director) and Ganga Tamang in Nepal to enable teachers and their students to communicate with the Nepali team and their wards. A Zoom call or letter exchange with program leaders and their protectees can go a long way to helping our students here engage more deeply with the reality of human trafficking.

Connect with Friends of WPC Nepal or another (local) program of choice (see bibliography for options) or search. Devise a plan of action and summarize your plan in 250+ words via a video report or text doc.

From two of our most fiercely moral voices, a passionate call to arms against our era's most pervasive human rights violation: the oppression of women and girls in the developing world. With Pulitzer Prize winners Nicholas D. Kristof and Sheryl WuDunn as our guides, we undertake an odyssey through Africa and Asia to meet the extraordinary women struggling there, among them a Cambodian teenager sold into sex slavery and an Ethiopian woman who suffered devastating injuries in childbirth. Drawing on the breadth of their combined reporting experience, Kristof and WuDunn depict our world with anger, sadness, clarity, and, ultimately, hope.
